How to write an eye-catching paper

Learn what journal editors really look for when they evaluate papers in this meet-the-editors session with three of International Immunology’s Associate Editors. Each editor will talk about what’s hot in their field and how authors can present their research in the clearest way for Editors and referees to assess the significance and originality and for readers to understand and interpret the findings.

11:30
Welcome address and presentation of International Immunology Outstanding Merit Award

Shizuo Akira, Professor and Director of WPI Immunology Frontier Research Center, Osaka University
Editor in Chief of International Immunology

11:35
International Immunology and journal publishing today

Matthew Lane, Publisher (Oxford University Press, Tokyo)

11:45-12:20
What we like to see in papers!

Sho Yamasaki, Professor (Research Institute for Microbial Diseases, Osaka University)
Associate Editor of International Immunology
Toshiaki Ohteki, Professor (Department of Biodefense, Medical Research Institute, Tokyo Medical and Dental University)
Associate Editor of International Immunology
Shohei Hori, Professor (Laboratory of Immunology and Microbiology, Graduate School of Pharmaceutical Sciences, University of Tokyo)
Associate Editor of International Immunology

12:20
Q&A

12:25
End